Qimini Pocket is awarded for high design quality in the “red dot award: product design 2013”!

The innovative power of Tektos Ltd. impressed the 37-member jury of experts for the “red dot award: product design 2013”. The jury members were delighted to receive 4,662 entries in 19 different categories in this year’s competition. Only the best designs were able to win the enthusiasm of the jury, which is how Qimini Pocket received the red dot for its successful design creation.

The awards ceremony for the seal of quality that is recognised worldwide takes place on 1 July 2013 as part of the traditional red dot gala. The ceremony – held in Essen’s opera house, the impressive Aalto Theater – is always the final highlight of the “red dot award: product design” and over the past years has become established as a celebratory ceremony with international guests. Qimini Pocket will then be put on display during a four-week special exhibition in the red dot design museum.

Qimini™ is the world's thinnest wireless charging plate to date. With its thickness of only 9mm, all components have been carefully designed to function powerfully in a small package. We paid attention to every detail to bring a beautifully designed product. The future of charging is cable-free and comes in a sleek tiny design.

Prof. Dr. Peter Zec, initiator and CEO of the red dot, has pointed out that strong design competence and economic success nowadays go hand in hand: "The winners of the 'red dot award: product design 2013' are the protagonists of a highly developed design culture and design industry. These days it is becoming more and more difficult to distinguish between well-designed products. It is often only in the details that the special qualities become apparent. However, those product creations that pass the test before the critical eyes of the international red dot jury will not disappear into the crowd and will be able to fend off global competition." The red dot design award

With the red dot design award, the Design Zentrum Nordrhein Westfalen created one of the most internationally acclaimed competitions. The prize, the "red dot", has established itself worldwide as one of the most sought-after quality marks for excellent design. The Design Zentrum Nordrhein Westfalen displays the award-winning products in the red dot design museum for at least one year.
